Foreword

Southwestern is many things. It is an unlimited combination of desks, blackboards, books, classrooms, activities, lessons, and growth. All these things are meaningless, however, unless they enrich the lives of the people they serve. More than any one thing, Southwestern is people.

We of the 1967 Centralian Staff have attempted to capture the spirit, the goals, and the achievements of each individual at Southwestern. The words and pictures that follow are representative of our school and the people who make it what it is.

Dedication

Mr. Milton C. Harp

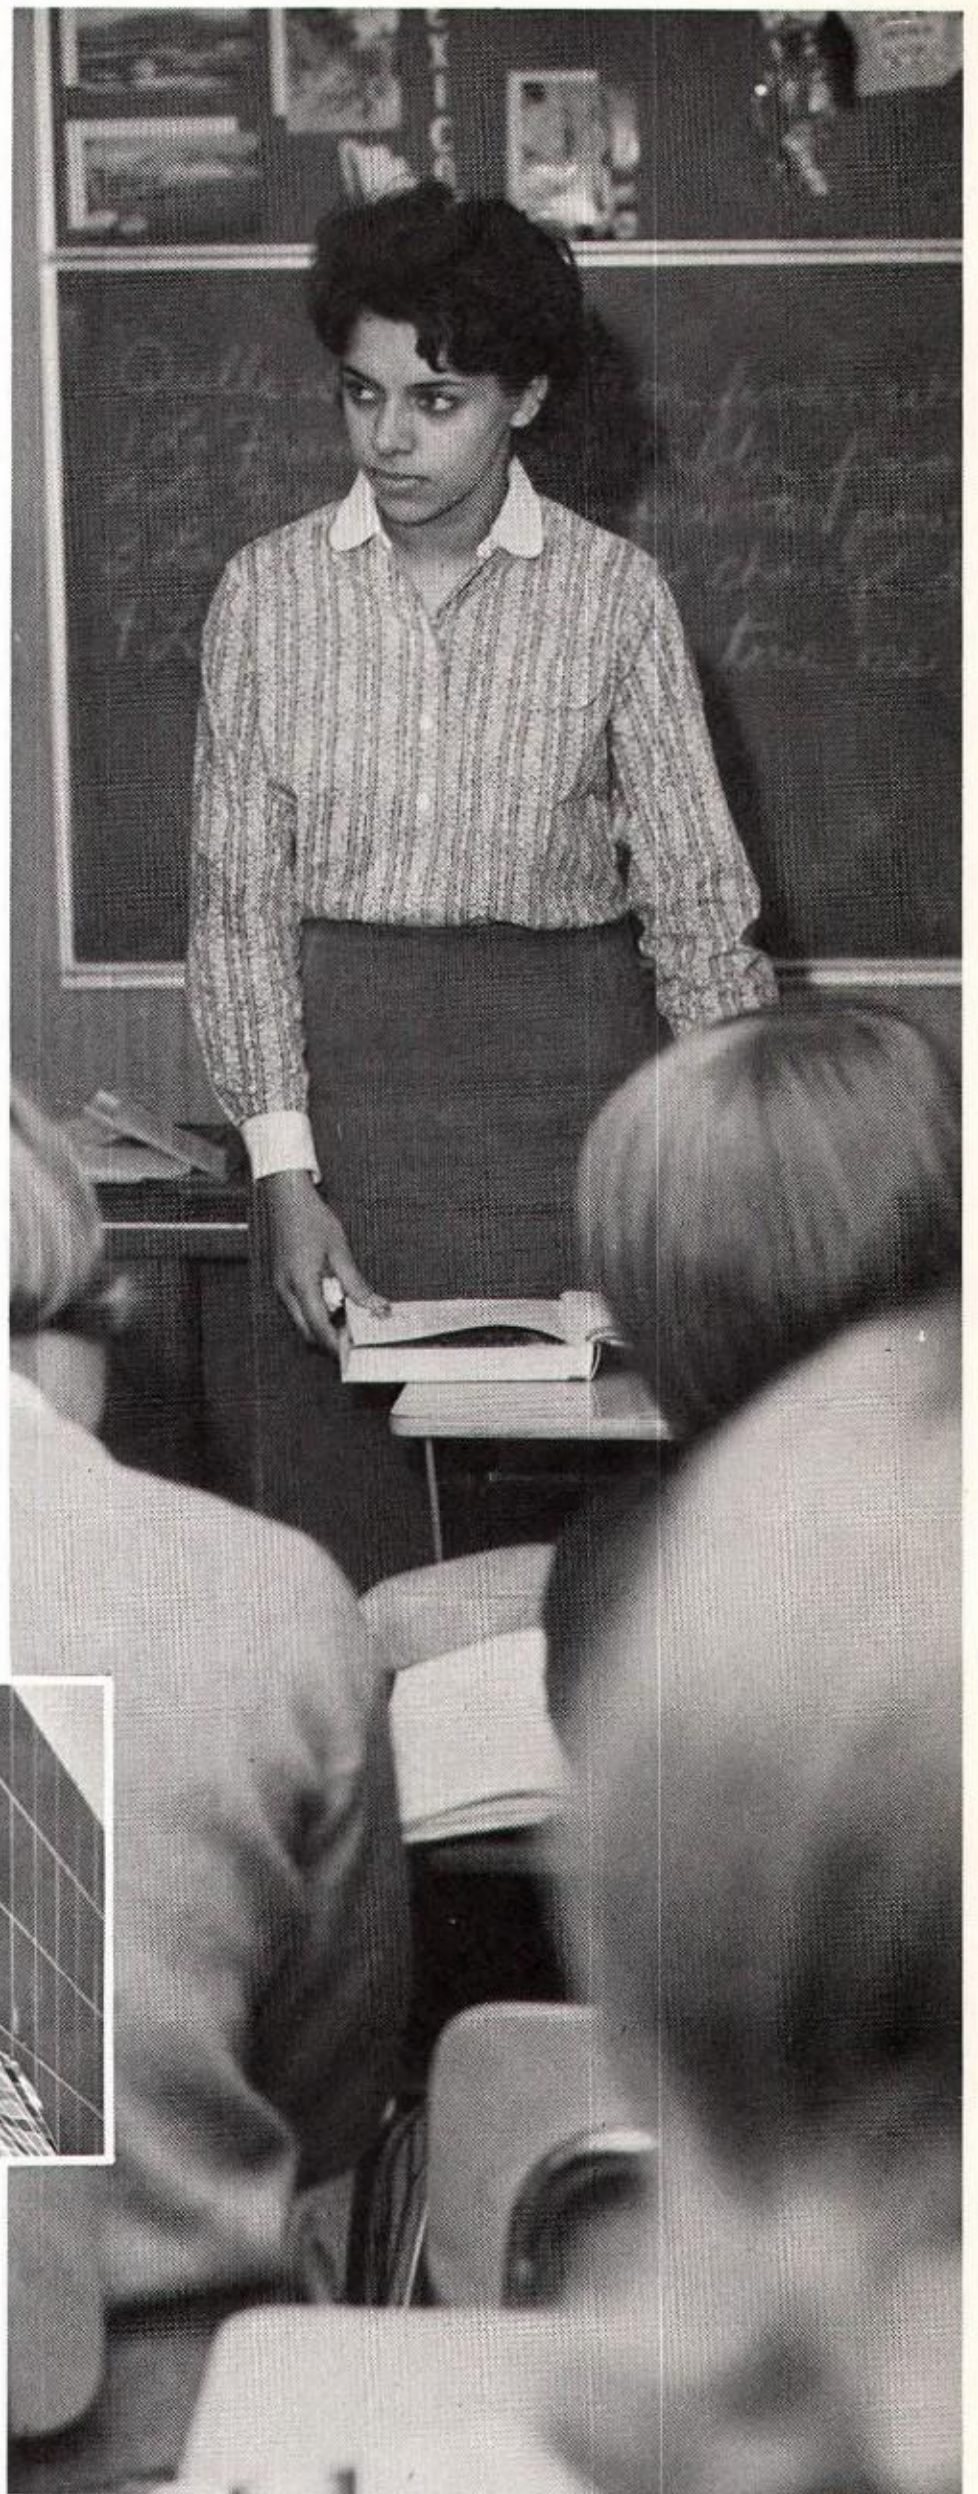

The Centralian Staff of 1967 dedicates this book to Mr. Harp, a teacher who has unselfishly given of his time to the students of Southwestern. Through his leadership the Student Council has become one of the most influential student organizations in the school. The Centralian knows that it speaks for all the Students of Southwestern when it says, "Thank you, Mr. Harp."

Southwestern is inspiration, the inspiration every good teacher gives to his students. An inspiring teacher can make a seemingly dull subject exciting and can create a genuine interest and enthusiasm in his students. An inspiring teacher is usually recognized by his students as being someone who is playing an influential role in their lives. These are the teachers who are fondly remembered in years to come.

Southwestern is hope, the hope which each student has as he leaves the halls of Southwestern prepared to go out into the world, the hope that he will attain his goals and will be able to meet the challenges of the future. It includes the hope that he will have a rewarding life and will enrich the lives of those around him. It is also the hope of all that these young men and women will succeed in making this a better world.

Cheaper by the Dozen

In our junior year, the Class of '67 presented Cheaper by the Dozen, a three-act comedy about the Gilbreth family and their efficiency minded father. Despite his high school age daughters' interest in boys and dates, Mr. Gilbreth pushes ahead with better organization for his large family. He puts up a chart for the children to initial after completing each household task, uses a rug as an imaginary bathtub to demonstrate how to take a really efficient bath, and appointed a utilities officer to levy fines on wasters of electricity.

In our senior year we presented The Tender Trap. This was a three-act comedy about a happily married man, Joe McCall, who goes to New York City on a business trip and while there visits a friend. This "friend" is a bachelor who has girl problems. At one time he even manages to become engaged to two girls. During his stay, Joe McCall is enticed by one girl in particular. However, everything turns out happily in the end.

National Merit

Each year the qualifying exam for the National Merit Scholarship is given to members of the Junior Class. To win this scholarship is a rare honor. This year David Yerkes of the Class of '67' won the National Merit Scholarship. He is the third person from Southwestern to do so.

Letters of Commendation were awarded to Sandra Carlson, Paul Hedin, and Neil Power.

David Yerkes, a member of the Class of '67', winner of the National Merit Scholarship.

Southwestern is striving. The striving of each student to acquire knowledge and to develop talents and character. It is the striving to do one's best at all times and never to accept failure as being final. It is the striving to broaden one's life as much as possible through the experiences which school offers. And perhaps most important of all, it is the striving on the part of each student to be fully prepared for the future which lies ahead.

JUNIOR CLASS OFFICERS—D. Cardarople, L. Bridges, P. Taylor, K. Rushin.

Southwestern is . . . challenge. Our junior year is a time of challenge. Much more is expected of us now than ever before. Our teachers are challenging us with new ideas to stimulate our minds. We are being given more independence, but we also must learn responsibility. We are looked upon as leaders, and as leaders we must always try to do our best for the good of all. Our minds, abilities, and talents are being challenged to meet these demands and also to meet the demands of the future.*

Southwestern is . . . preparation.
Our sophomore year is mainly a year of preparation. As members of the Senior High we are being given many new responsibilities, which will help to prepare us for the day when we will finally become the leaders of the student body. As sophomores we are also beginning to prepare for our own futures. It is now that we must consider our plans for what we will do after we leave Southwestern.

Southwestern is unity. Unity is the basis of all team sports. A team cannot perform at its best without each member realizing that he is a part of a unit and that he has a responsibility to the others to do his utmost. Unity is also the feeling dependence of one member upon another. Each person knows that without the aid of his teammates he could accomplish very little. Unity gives the team the spirit to excel.

Southwestern is spirit. The spirit on which activities depend. It must be the spirit of everyone, both students and teachers. This spirit must come freely from the heart, and must be expressed in the cheerful giving of one's time and energy to an endeavor. An individual with spirit, who gives of himself unselfishly to activities, not only benefits those around him, but even more important, enriches his own life.

The Sportsman Club was organized this year under the direction of Mr. Burgard and Mr. Puls. The prime objective for the first year was to teach the students the proper care and handling of firearms, as well as how to shoot them. Some work was also done on conservation, and guest speakers entertained the group on Big Game Hunting and Fishing. In the future the program intends to include horseback riding, archery, and fishing trips.

Meet the Staff

The Centralian Staff for 1966 was composed of twelve seniors supervised by Mr. Davis. The work began last spring when the theme had to be chosen and the general plans outlined. For the staff members that work continued until the books were ready for distribution. Laying out a yearbook was a job that was new and challenging, and meeting that challenge became an education as well as an exciting experience for all those involved.
